Rising Defense Costs—Disarmament Talks Have Twin Impact at Conference

QUANTICO, VA.

The fifth annual Secretaries' Conference at the Marine Corps Schools was marked by closed-door meetings on two formidable Pentagon problems.

One was the impact of rising costs on the defense program, as a result of more inflation and more new weapons.

The other matter under earnest consideration here, and punctuated by a lead-off briefing from Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, concerns the current disarmament talks in London.

About the latter, Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson had little to say in two meetings with newsmen. Asked, however, to comment on reports that the Pentagon "is overcautious in the approach to the Russians," Secretary Wilson made this comment:

"I suppose you might analyze it as our job to be on the overly cautious side, if

Marines Face Manpower Cutback Of 3,000; Ask Return Of $9.5 Million House Reduction

(Navy Could Lose 11,000, P. 3)

The Marine Corps will be forced to reduce its uniformed personnel strength by 3,000 men if the Senate goes along with House reductions in the military budget.

Brig. Gen. F. L. Wieseman, USMC, told the Senate Appropriations Committee that the manpower cut is "the only possible solution" unless $4.6 million eliminated by the House is restored to the personnel program.

He also urged the Senate to return

President Gives Views On Pay As Senate Group Is Named

The Administration has lost the initiative in the task of fashioning a modernized military pay structure.

The military pay leadership now is at the Capitol, notably in the hands of a newly named Senate Armed Services Subcommittee, headed by John Stennis (D-Miss).

As the Subcommittee considered its plan of action, President Eisenhower spoke out at a news conference on 19 June in answer to a question from the New York Herald Tribune's White House correspondent as to why the Administration was not putting into effect the full Cordier Report this year.

The Chief Executive gave clear indication that the Administration will not support any general pay readjustment this year, such as was proposed to the Budget

Bureau by Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson.

It was when the Budget Bureau spurned Mr. Wilson's proposed legislation, which would have cost about one half of the $249 million recommended by the Cordier Committee for the period

AF Fears Flying Hour Slash Effect

The Air Force fears a "reduced combat potential" as a result of House action eliminating 500,000 flying hours from the fiscal '58 budget.

Strong efforts are being made in the Senate to win restoration of more than $131 million of the $162 million cut by the House from Operation and Maintenance funds.

Great concern is being expressed by Air Force commanders over the prospective cut in flying hours.

The Air Force in May, 1956, submitted a "flash estimate" to Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson for a budget

THE Army this week followed up prior June promotions to colonel, (19) lieutenant colonel (59) and major (116) (THE JOURNAL 15 June) with new advancements, announced in S.O. 117 and effective from 14 June.

The list of 35 new colonels has a cutoff date of 1 September 1945. Promotion of 105 to lieutenant colonel makes a new cutoff date to that rank of 16 November 1950 with 151 months 7 days service. The cutoff to major is 17 October 1950 with 145 months 7 days service.

LATE THIS WEEK, the Army made available at the Pentagon Circular 624-11, which contains the names of officers of the Army, Chaplains, WAC and Medical Service promotion lists who have been recommended for temporary lieutenant colonel. Promotions will be made as vacancies occur.

The Army list contained approximately 1630 selections to lieutenant colonel. Also chosen were 32 chaplains, 10 WAC, 12 from the Medical Corps, 7 from the Dental Corps, 25 from the Veterinary Corps, 23 from the Medical Service Corps and 5 Nurses.

Pentagon Group Studies Dental Care

The Department of Defense has announced the membership of its Dental Advisory Committee organized to study the dental care aspects of the Dependents' Medical Care Program and recommend any appropriate changes.

Under the program dental care in Continental United States is available now only in the remote areas, or if necessary to medical or surgical treatment. In overseas areas such care is provided for military dependents by all services on a space available basis.

The Dental Advisory Committee, headed by Maj. Gen. Paul I. Robinson, MC, USA, Executive Director of the Office for Dependents' Medical Care, was formed at the request of Dr. Frank B. Berry, Assistant Secretary of Defense (Health and Medical).

Before enactment of the Dependents' Medical Care Act (P. L. 569, 84th Congress), dental care for dependents of Army and Air Force military personnel was provided on a space available basis both in the United States and overseas. The Navy did not provide this care for dependents except in emergencies.

The Committee will hold its first meeting on 8 July in the Office of the Army Surgeon General.

Other Committee members are:

Lt. Col. Robert W. Hobson, DC, USA, Executive Secretary.

ARMY—Lt. Col. Steve G. Davis, Office of Deputy Chief of Staff for Personnel.
Lt. Col. Karl F. Ehrlich, DC, Office of the Surgeon General.

NAVY—LCDR. P. E. Rickey, Office of the Bureau of Personnel.

Capt. Guy E. Stahr, MC, Office of the Surgeon General.

Capt. Arthur R. Frechette, MC, Office of the Surgeon General.

AIR FORCE—Lt. Col. D. W. Pratt, Office of Deputy Chief of Staff for Personnel.

Brig. Gen. James S. Cathroe, DC, Office of the Surgeon General (alternate) Colonel Charles S. O'Grady, DC, Office of Surgeon General.

Want A Salute?

The shortwave branch of the Armed Forces Radio and Television Service, Los Angeles, is initiating a policy of saluting the various units, ships, branches, etc., of the military establishment on anniversary dates. AFRTS intends to air these salutes to its overseas audience during station identification periods.

Unit historians, in order to assure their outfits proper mention, should write: "Special Events Director, Shortwave Branch, Armed Forces Radio and Television Service, 1016 North McCadden Place, Los Angeles 38, California."

President Speaks On Cordiner Proposals

President Eisenhower was asked to comment on the Cordiner Report at his news conference on Wednesday, 19 June, by Mr. Robert Donovan, White House correspondent for the New York Herald Tribune.

Mr. Donovan wanted to know why the Administration has not put into effect the Cordiner Report in full this year.

Here is the President's reply:

"Well, this is the story of the Cordiner Report. It was a distinguished group of people that met, went through the Services, and made certain recommendations. I have met with Mr. Cordiner twice.

"The whole Cordiner Report was brought about by the fact that enlisted men with hard skills, and certain groups of very valuable young officers, were finding the going just too tough for them and were leaving the Service. And it was believed—and I think proved rather satisfactorily—that if we would raise the pay or the inducements to stay in the Services for these two groups, that we would save money because the cost of training them and then losing them is almost prohibitive.

"Now, I have supported very earnestly that part of the Report but I have not supported the idea that because of this need the Cordiner Report or the need for raising the emoluments of specialists and enlisted personnel and certain of the very young officers in the commissioned ranks should be used as an excuse for a general over-all pay raise to include all the generals, and everybody else in the Army, Navy and Air Force.

"I think that is wrong at this time. So what I want to do is pinpoint this thing, and Mr. Wilson, in fact has made some moves in that direction.

"But remember the rest of the Report, I think, is a fine basis for study for the future examination—I mean for examination for future action. It is a fine basis, but I do not believe at this time we should take a special need and use it as an excuse for a general over-all pay raise that would be reflected everywhere in the Governmental service."

Military Pay Action

from 1 January to 30 June 1958, that action started on Capitol Hill.

Senator Stuart Symington (D-Mo.), former Secretary of the Air Force, introduced a bill that would implement the Cordiner Report, and he was joined by Senator Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz), who is a Colonel in the Air Force Reserve.

In the House, Representative James

Van Zandt (R-Pa.), a Captain in the Naval Reserve, has introduced similar legislation.

THE JOURNAL on 8 June forecast that Chairman Richard B. Russell of the Senate Armed Services Committee would name a special subcommittee to look into the pay situation. Prediction was made that Senator Symington would be its chairman.

Instead, Senator Stennis was given the chairmanship, with Senator Symington as a member.

Senator Symington said this week: "It is my understanding that the Administration is against the Cordiner Report, its own report, because it will cost some money in the first two years, although it states that large savings will be made by the third year and that within five years if these recommendations are implemented, the savings could be $5 billion annually."

Mr. Symington made this statement first to the New York Herald Tribune, which is campaigning strongly in support of the Cordiner Plan.

Repeating the remarks for THE JOURNAL, Senator Symington indicated that he may not approve every recommendation of the Cordiner Report, "but overall I believe it to be economically sound and constructive. Not only will many of its proposals help the taxpayers but many of them should seem to be essential to our national security."

At the week's end, the Services were working only on plans for the "proficiency pay" program devised by Secretary Wilson and to be put into effect administratively. There are comments on this action on Page 12.

At the White House, the President made it clear that the Administration is not likely to change its attitude toward a pay revision this year.

And on Capitol Hill, the Senate subcommittee was making preliminary studies preparatory to a decision on when to begin hearings. In addition to Senators Stennis and Symington, members of the Subcommittee are Senators Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.), probably the strongest economy advocate in Congress, Leverett Saltonstall (R-Mass.) and Wallace F. Barrett (R-Wyo.).

Comment On Pay

REPRESENTATIVE PAUL J. KILDAY (D-Tex), third-ranking Democrat on the House Armed Services Committee, and chairman of the subcommittee which has considered past military pay raises, told THE JOURNAL "If the Senate Subcommittee is going to go ahead, we should wait and see what they do." He was not optimistic, however. Mr. Kilday said "it is so late in the session that I doubt if anything could be completed." He noted that the two Cordiner proposals introduced in the House have not yet been referred to his subcommittee.

REPRESENTATIVE STEWART L. UDALL (D-Ariz), who introduced one of the House proposals, told THE JOURNAL "the whole problem needs to be illuminated." He said he will request an opportunity to testify before the Senate Subcommittee and added that he is "glad they are getting some action."

MURRAY SNYDER, Assistant Secretary of Defense (Public Affairs); RAADM. J. M. Hoskins, USN, Director of the Office of Declassification Policy; and Mr. Paul R. Navy Postpones 54,000 Promotions; Faces Further Slow-Down Or 11,000 Manpower Cut

The Navy has ordered a promotion slow-down in an attempt to stay within its current budget, and may have to further reduce promotions or cut manpower during the new fiscal year beginning 1 July.

Almost 100,000 officers and enlisted personnel are involved.

VAdm. James L. Holloway, Jr., USN, Deputy CNO for Personnel, told of the "drastic" steps in an appearance before the Senate Appropriations Committee.

He appealed to the Committee to restore $18 million which the House cut from the Navy's '58 personnel funds. At least one "significant change" apparently was not taken into account by the House when it made its decision, Admiral Holloway said.

This change involves increased costs brought about by new legislation which was approved after the '57 budget had already been cleared by the Congress, he said.

These costs "have placed heavy demands on an already closely estimated appropriation," the Deputy CNO told the Senators, and have forced the Navy to delay the "promotion of approximately 54,000 personnel one month as a drastic administrative action to ensure remaining within the 1957 appropriation." The Navy said the slow-down is in enlisted promotions only.

If the $18 million House cut goes into effect, he said, there will not be enough money in fiscal '58 either. This means, Admiral Holloway stated, that "we shall be forced either to reduce Navy fiscal year 1958 personnel end strength by approximately 11,000 or take another arbitrary administrative action such as deferring the promotion of approximately 45,000 qualified personnel." The promotion slow-down in this instance, the Navy said, will involve both officers and enlisted men.

Admiral Holloway also asked for the restoration of $1.5 million of a $2 million House cut in "general expenses" in the personnel field. Unless the restoration is made, he said, the Navy will "have to accept a reduction in the number and quality of essential, trained personnel and a reduced quality level for the maintenance and operation of facilities."

Training in new development areas such as guided missiles and nuclear weapons and in the area of air defense are "imposing additional demands on our resources," the Admiral said.

Quantico Conference Sidelights

The 1957 Secretaries Conference at the Marine Corps School, Quantico, Va., was marked by the decision of Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson to eliminate the practice of previous years of making available to newsmen extracts of closed-door briefings. He explained that the fifth meeting had more of a security atmosphere than the prior meetings. One reason was the analysis of the impact of current disarmament talks in London.

Secretary Wilson's incredible good luck with the weather continued. Rain has not forced cancellation of any of the recreational activities planned for the afternoons of any of the conferences since their start in 1953.

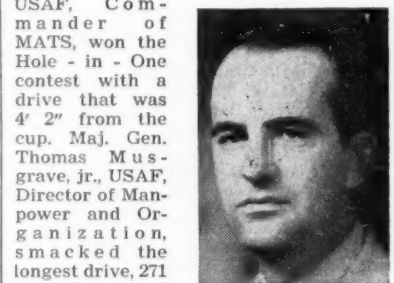

Saturday Evening Post Photographer Ollie Atkins was on hand for the Conference, mainly to shoot pictures in connection with a forthcoming article on General Nathan F. Twining, USAF, who takes over from Admiral Arthur Radford, USN, as JCS Chairman in August. After the close of the business meeting on Saturday, Lt. Gen. Merrill B. Twining, USMC, who commands the Marine Corps Schools, asked his brother to pose for a photograph in front of Ellis Hall, quickly added that "it's not my idea, Nate."

Cooler participants in the Conference sessions were the handful of Air Force generals who wore short-sleeve shirts in the 90 degree heat. None, however, wore shorts.

Secretary Wilson was pleased with an innovation in the fifth Conference. The Saturday meeting featured a panel discussion by the Service Chiefs—General Thomas D. White was the Air Force spokesman—at which questions were posed anonymously. One question that particularly intrigued Mr. Wilson was the simply stated matter of "Why does the Army want more men, the Navy more carriers and the Air Force more dollars." Mr. Wilson told newsmen that "as a matter of fact, it sort of highlights in a short sentence our problems."

Arrangements were made at the Marine Corps Schools for the arrival of President Eisenhower in the event the Chief Executive decided at the last moment to join the Conference. But the President was unable to attend and Vice President Nixon was forced to cancel plans for a Quantico visit. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, however, arrived on schedule to deliver an opening address at 0845 on Friday.

The Air Force led the field in winning the trophies for sports events during the Conference. Lowest gross in golf, 80, was scored by Lt. Gen. Dean Strother, USAF, Air University Commander. Lt. Gen. Joseph Smith, USAF, Commander of MATS, won the Hole-in-One contest with a drive that was 4' 2" from the cup. Maj. Gen. Thomas Musgrave, Jr., USAF, Director of Manpower and Organization, smacked the longest drive, 271 yards 8 feet, and Lt. Gen. Manuel J. Asensio, USAF, Comptroller, won the Lucky Line competition. Mr. John A. Johnson, a USAF civilian, caught the biggest fish (stream), a 14" trout.

Lt. Gen. Strother

Other trophy winners included Col. Samuel Shaw, USMC, who brought in a 9 1/4" bass from the lake; RADM. John Frost, USN, who was best in an "Uncanny Accuracy" golf contest; and Maj. Gen. J. D. O'Connell, USA, the Chief Signal Officer, who had a low net of 71 in golf.

LT. GEN. JAMES M. GAVIN, (center) Army's Chief of Research and Development, visits the 28th Division Shrine at Boalsburg, Pa., and speaks at its memorial service. Left is Capt. Victor B. McCrea, USN, and, right, Col. Arthur W. Kogstad, USA, PNS and PMST, respectively, at the Pennsylvania State University.

"LIKE A TERRIER DOG"

QUANTICO, VA.

Most military and civilian leaders attending the fifth annual Secretaries Conference here and most of the newsmen covering the sessions had anticipated that the weekend sessions might provide a platform for Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson to tell of his plans for leaving Government service.

All were surprised.

At a Saturday meeting with reporters in air conditioned Ellis Hall, Mr. Wilson said his talk to the conferees at the concluding luncheon the next day would not be a valedictory, as had been Admiral Arthur Radford's report on Saturday.

"The meeting was so interesting today," the Secretary commented. He said "I am about like a little terrier dog when you bounce a ball in front of him."

Asked by Mr. Jack Raymond of the New York Times if any of the new ideas developed at the Conference "intrigue you to want to stay around a little longer than generally assumed?", the Secretary replied:

"I suppose what you mean is am I interested in my assignment. The answer to that is I am. I mean it's a terrifically complicated, frustrating job at times, but it's worthwhile and very important and challenging."

The JOURNAL reporter covering the Conference asked the Secretary if it was his hope to lead the Sixth get-together at Quantico next year.

"Oh, my," the Secretary responded.

Consensus of newsmen was that the Secretary likely intends to remain on the job for some time to come. In the past, he had indicated only that he planned to continue as Secretary until after Congress completed action on the fiscal '58 budget.

Defense Conference

anything. You wouldn't want us to be naive about it and risk the security of the country because we were a little dumb, so that perhaps we are on the conservative side.

"But we are frankly entering into an analysis of anything that anyone suggests in this area that might take heat out of the world and contribute toward a sound basis of disarmament with proper safeguards."

As to Secretary Dulles' presentation, which lasted one hour including questions, Mr. Wilson said only that it was a "frank" report. The Defense Secretary declined to answer any questions regarding disarmament aspects of Mr. Dulles' talk and of subsequent presentations made by the Service Chiefs.

On the matter of the budget, Mr. Wilson spoke more freely, reviewing how spending currently is running well ahead of the predicted $38 billion.

Mr. Wilson conceded that manpower cuts could be in the offing as the Services strive to keep spending within authorized levels.

With characteristic candor, Secretary Wilson said of his budget problems: "I haven't got any elastic dollars. I don't know how to get people to be more effective and efficient just suddenly out of four million people. They're doing quite well. They're fine people."

AMONG THE PARTICIPANTS in the Conference was RADM. John H. Sides, USN, Deputy to the Special Assistant to the Secretary of Defense for Guided Missiles, and Lt. Gen. Samuel E. Anderson, USAF, Director of the Weapons System Evaluation Group.

It was announced that General Anderson will succeed Lt. Gen. Thomas S. Power, USAF, who takes over 1 July as C-in-C of SAC with four-star rank. Admiral Sides, who will have three-star rank, becomes USEG Director on 1 August.

GENERAL MAXWELL D. TAYLOR, Army CofS, and General W. G. Wyman, CG, USCONARC, were ranking military speakers at the recent Aviation Industrial Symposium at Ft. Rucker, Ala. Brig. Gen. Carl I. Hutton, commanding general, The Army Aviation Center and Ft. Rucker, is at right.

Honor B/G Ford, "Father of Army Aviation," As "Grasshoppers" Meet at Ft. Rucker

Fifteen members of the original group of officers and enlisted CAA-rated pilots who started the entire Army aviation program in January, 1942, saw the commanding officer of their experimental unit, Brig. Gen. W. W. Ford, USA-Ret., receive the first Army Master Aviator Badge recently at Fort Rucker, Ala.

The presentation, made by General W. G. Wyman, commanding general, U. S. Continental Army Command, Ft. Monroe, Va., was a part of the celebration at the Army Aviation Center of the 15th anniversary of the incorporation of aircraft into the Army combat team.

Qualifications for the Master Aviators Badge, for which active duty personnel will not be eligible until August when the first pilots were rated, includes the following: Fifteen years of military-civilian flight status; helicopter and fixed-wing rated; 3,000 hours of flight time and a current instrument examiners ticket.

The presentation of General Ford's badge was made at the official dinner of the June 5-7 Army Aviation Symposium sponsored for 125 aviation manufacturers or their representatives, another event in the celebration of the 15th anniversary.

Army speakers included Army Chief of Staff Maxwell D. Taylor; General Wyman; Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin, Chief, Research and Development; Maj. Gen. Hamilton H. Howze, Director, Army Aviation; Maj. Gen. R. H. Weincke, Deputy Assistant Chief of Staff, Intelligence; Maj. Gen. Paul F. Yount, Chief of Transportation; Brig. Gen. R. D. Meyer, Chief, Plans Review, Deputy Chief of Staff, Logistics; and Brig. Gen. C. B. DeGavre, Director of Developments, Office, Chief of Research and Development.

General Ford, now vice-president, technical services, Aeronica Manufacturing Corp., Middletown, Ohio, is credited as the "father of Army aviation." In 1941, then a major of artillery and a sportsman-pilot of long standing, he convinced the head of his arm that slow-moving light aircraft might prove more effective for artillery observation than faster-moving heavier planes.

The "old-timers"—"Grasshoppers" as they call themselves in memory of the tiny aircraft they flew in World War II—came from all over the country for the 15th anniversary occasion. The reunion was sponsored by the U. S. Army Aviation Board, CONARC's user-test agency at Fort Rucker, whose commanding officer, Col. Robert R. Williams, USA, is the ranking member of the experimental group now on active military service.

Others who gathered for the reunion were:

Gordon J. Wolf, lawyer, Cincinnati, Ohio; Robert M. Leich, Leich Drug Co., Evansville, Ind.; Lt. Col. Delbert M. Bristol, Washington, D. C.; Joseph E. McDonald, Beech Aircraft Corp., Washington, D. Trying to save a $10 bill could cost you thousands
like these...

Accidents can happen anytime, anywhere. Your golf ball strikes the caddy... your bullet hits another hunter... your children break a neighbor's picture window... your wife scalds a guest with hot coffee... your dog bites the mailman... the milkman breaks a leg on your back porch. These accidents, and many more, can result in costly judgments that may run into the thousands.

Now for the first time, USAA, serving the Armed Forces officer with low cost automobile insurance since 1922, makes available

THE USAA COMPREHENSIVE PERSONAL LIABILITY POLICY

With this new CPL policy you get financial protection against everyday accidents that might happen at or away from your home. Accidents that might injure another person or through negligence cause damage to the property of others.

For as little as $10 a year you can have the new CPL policy giving you $10,000 liability coverage and meeting medical payments up to $250. For less than three cents a day additional cost liability coverage of $50,000 can be provided and medical payments coverage increased to $1,000. Higher limits are also available at nominal cost as are many additional coverages.

USAA employs no agents. It is a non-profit insurance association under the direction of active and retired officers of the Armed Services. All selling is by mail and the resulting savings are passed on to policyholders. USAA affiliated claims services are located in all areas where the CPL policy is offered.

Don't delay. Write today for application blank and descriptive folder of the new USAA Comprehensive Personal Liability Policy. Be protected from costly every day accidents.

The USAA Membership is limited to active and retired officers, cadets, and warrant officers of the following Services of the United States of America: Army, Air Force, Navy, Marine Corps, Coast Guard, Public Health Service, Coast and Geodetic Survey; officers and warrant officers of the National Guard and the Reserve components, when ordered to extended active Federal duty and as long as they retain their commissions, and Foreign Service Officers of the Department of State. The widows of such officers and warrant officers may insure with USAA so long as their status is not changed by remarriage.

THE 40TH ANNIVERSARY of organized lighter-than-air Naval aviation was observed by placing a wreath on a memorial plaque at Akron, Ohio, dedicated to nine Navy officers who gave their lives in the course of airship development. Left to right: Ward T. Van Orman, pioneer balloonist for Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., RAdm. Karl Lange, USNR, ranking lighter-than-air pilot in the reserve organization and manager of Goodyear's LTA Flight Operations; and Cdr. W. B. Miller, USN, NAS, Akron executive.

Navy Asks Unlimited Promotions To Capt And Cdr For Medical And Dental Officers

The Navy has asked Congress to approve unlimited promotion opportunities for Navy physicians and dentists in the higher grades.

The Navy plan, now before the Congress and expected to be introduced in the House this week, applies only to MC and DC officers being selected for promotion to captain and commander.

It would, however, also open up promotion opportunities for more junior officers by creating additional vacancies in the ranks of commander and lieutenant commander.

The proposal gives the Navy authority to make 100 per cent selections within the MC, DC promotion zones to captain and commander. At present, the selection percentage is less than 80 per cent and the Navy states that "for the foreseeable future" more than 20 per cent of the Medical and Dental officers considered for promotion to these two grades will be twice passed over and forced to retire.

"This prospective forced attrition of qualified and experienced officers," Under Secretary of the Navy W. B. Franke told the Congress, "is highly detrimental to the retention in the Naval service of Medical and Dental Corps officers."

At present, selections to captain and commander in the two Corps are tied to the number of Line officers selected for those grades.

The new proposal provides that the Navy would have to select at least the Line percentage authorized by law, but could select all the zone.

Secretary Franke said "This increased opportunity for promotion should be an important incentive to Medical and Dental Corps officers to continue their careers in the Naval service and should help to alleviate the present and prospective shortage of such officers."

RAdm. Rosso Invested As Domestic Prelate

RAdm. George A. Rosso, assistant director of the Navy Chaplain Corps, was invested Sunday, 16 June as a Domestic Prelate by designation of Pope Pius XII.

Earlier Chaplain Rosso had been given the honorary degree of doctor of laws at the 111th commencement exercises of Holy Cross College, Worcester, Mass.

Most Rev. Patrick A. O'Boyle, Archbishop of Washington conducted the investiture service at the U. S. Navy Security Station Chapel, Washington, D. C.

This is the second high church honor bestowed by the Pope on the 20-year veteran of the Navy Chaplain Corps. In 1954, Chaplain Rosso was appointed a Papal Chamberlain upon the recommendation of Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York City.

The new honor is one given to priests who have given outstanding service to the church. It carries the permanent rank of Right Reverend Monsignor. His previous appointment to the Papal household was technically only for the life term of the present Pope.

Chaplain Rosso is a native of New York City and the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Rosso. He is a 1927 graduate of Cathedral College, New York City, and of St. Joseph's Seminary, Dunwoodie, N. Y., in 1933. He was ordained in June 1933 at St. Patrick's Cathedral by the late Patrick Cardinal Hayes.

His first and only assignment as a parish priest was as assistant pastor of Our Lady of Peace Church in New York City.

After nearly four years in that parish, Chaplain Rosso was commissioned in the Navy on March 10, 1937 and moved up the ranks to his appointment as rear admiral in August 1955.

His initial tour with the Navy was as chaplain aboard the USS New York. In 1940, he was sent to the U. S. Naval Training Station, Great Lakes, Ill., to be assistant chaplain and coordinator of recreation for the Ninth Naval District during the huge expansion of the Navy at the outset of World War II.

In January 1943, he was named senior chaplain aboard the new USS Iowa, which a few months later was used by the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt for his wartime trip to Casablanca for the Teheran conference with Winston Churchill and the late Josef Stalin. The Iowa later joined the Fifth Fleet in the Pacific Theater.

Chaplain Rosso was transferred to Naval headquarters here in 1944 and received a commendation from the Secretary of Navy for his outstanding administrative service in the Bureau of Naval Personnel during the last year of the war.

He was assigned to Washington headquarters in 1954 and became assistant director of the Chaplain Corps in 1955.

Marine Corps Faces Manpower Cutback

From first page—

$4.9 million for Marine Corps troops and facilities programs. Otherwise, he said, a number of essential programs will be curtailed. Here are the "adverse effects" which he said will result:

1—The repair program of vital equipment for replacement will be reduced.

2—The scope of training will diminish because of reduced availability of gasoline, oil and spare parts.

3—Tests of items beyond the development stage of research and development will be limited.

4—The planned integration of new weapons such as missiles will be limited.

5—Maintenance of Marine Corps real property must be deferred.

6—The capability of the Marine supply system to support combat forces will be impaired through reductions in civilian personnel.

Manpower Cut

Discussing the 3,000-man personnel cut, General Wieseman said other methods of absorbing the reduction were fully explored but to no avail.

The Marine Corps, he said, is unable to further reduce its essential travel, and any "artificial halt to the normal promotion flow of qualified personnel would be penny wise and pound foolish. Failure to promote qualified personnel leads to one immediate result, a decrease in reenlistments. This, in turn, ultimately leads to increased costs and decreased combat readiness."

Army Navy Air Force Journal
22 June 1957 (Vol. 94, P. 1291)

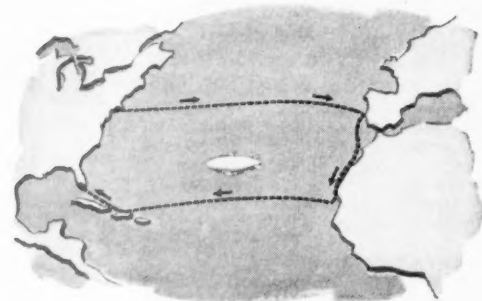

The Marine Corps Fiscal Director added, "The retention of career personnel is already a serious problem. This approach could only further aggravate it."

This means, he told the Committee, that "the only possible solution is to plan to reduce our end military strength by about 3,000. This is a reduction that can only weaken our operating forces to an unacceptable degree and decrease our combat readiness and effectiveness."

He urged the Committee to restore $9.5 million of the House cut.

A U. S. Navy ZPG-2 non-rigid airship made news recently in an 11-day nonstop, non-refueled flight from South Weymouth, Mass., across the Atlantic, along the coasts of Portugal and Africa, and back westward via the West Indies to Key West.

The flight, to evaluate prolonged operations of airships in anti-submarine and airborne early warning radar service, lasted for 264 hours and 12 minutes, and covered 9,448 statute miles — setting new world's records for both time and distance, under tough flying conditions that included snow, rain and high winds.

The record-breaking ZPG-2, like all other U. S. Navy airships of its class, is powered by dependable Curtiss-Wright Cyclone 7s — teamed with Curtiss-Wright Electric Propellers.

AMF has missile experience you can use

In program after program, including each of those above, AMF has played or is playing an important role. A component supplier in some, a system developer in others, AMF knows the missile business first-hand. • AMF contributions to the nation's missile programs include test and check-out systems, handling and launching equipment, on-site missile storage facilities, accessory power supplies. • See for yourself why AMF's widely diversified background plus its up-to-the-minute missile activities add up to "experience you can use".

Budget Dangers. Some of the latent dangers that will be wrought to the national defense structure if the House-imposed cuts to the budget are allowed to prevail are beginning to come to light, as revealed in a number of reports printed in this issue of THE JOURNAL.

It already has been shown that the cuts will curtail and postpone procurement of critical material, weapons, and manpower. Now it comes out that military skills will suffer under budget reductions. For example, the cut-back in money will necessitate severe curtailment in flying hours in both the Air Force and the Navy. This cannot help but have an adverse effect upon the maintenance of proficiency by both flying crew members and their ground support crews.

Housing, too—that vital attribute to Service family morale and hence important to retention of career personnel—also will suffer, for much planned construction will have to be cancelled or postponed.

Representatives of all the Services have made strong representations to the Senate Committee for the restoration of parts of the House cuts. The Senate Committee, having had the benefit of both the House testimony, and the reclama made by the Service representatives, doubtless will restore some portions of the cuts. But the danger comes in the conference between the House and Senate, for compromises there can off-set much of whatever good the Senate may do.

The disarmament prospects made it more imperative than ever that our strength be maintained. If we start cutting back before a satisfactory agreement is reached our position will be greatly weakened.

Cordiner Plan Won't Die! The Cordiner plan for vitalizing career incentives in the Armed Forces remains very much alive despite the thumbs down attitude of the Administration and its Bureau of the Budget.

As reported on the first page of this issue, Chairman Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.) of the Senate Armed Services Committee, has appointed a subcommittee to make a formal study of the report and come up with recommendations as to what course of action should be taken on the far reaching plan it urges. It is too early to forecast what the attitude of the Subcommittee may be, but it's significant that Senator Russell included on its membership both Senator Stuart Symington (D-Mo.), a foremost protagonist of the Cordiner plan, and Senator Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.), the most economy-minded member of Congress.

No move has yet been made in the House Committee to give recognition to the report, other than to ask the Department of Defense to make a formal report on the Cordiner recommendations as brought before it in the bill introduced by Representative James E. Van Zandt (R-Pa.) The Senate Committee has made a similar request, asking the Department to report on the bill introduced by Senator Symington and Senator Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.).

These requests for report and recommendations put the Department of Defense on the spot. Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson already has told the Bureau of the Budget that all his civilian department heads and all the military chiefs have unanimously endorsed the principles of the Cordiner report. The Bureau, however, speaking for the Administration, has rejected the plan as a whole and will permit official recommendation of only a most watered-down minimum. In light of the fact that whatever report the Department now desires to send to the Congressional Committees must first be submitted to the Bureau of the Budget, the Department is blocked in expressing its whole-hearted backing. It is possible (and such action has been taken before) for the Department to tell Congress that it believes the report sound and necessary, but that it cannot give its official backing because the Bureau of the Budget says it is not in accord with the President's financial program. In that way it could get its qualified endorsement on the record.

Further evidence that the Cordiner report will not die is the growing interest and support of the daily press. The influential New York Herald Tribune led its 17 June issue with two first page articles by Tom Lambert and its columnist Roscoe Drummond reporting a "Two Party Drive to Save Cordiner Service-Pay Plan" and analyzing the financial savings and increased efficiency that would develop if the plan were put into effect. The first page stories were backed up by nearly five columns of discussion on inside pages, including another article by Mr. Drummond reporting that General Curtis E. LeMay, USAF, is ready to support an immediate 10 percent cut in Strategic Air Command personnel if Congress will enact a plan based on the Cordiner report.

The same issue of the Herald Tribune devoted its lead editorial to a vigorous endorsement of the Cordiner report. "This newspaper believes," it said, "that the Eisenhower Administration is dead wrong in stifling the Cordiner Committee's recommendations for getting more national defense for less money. . . . Let Congress and the public at large assert themselves and demand full-scale action now."

That the Herald Tribune's action was not a one-time flash was indicated by its next day's issue which carried another first page article by Rowland Evans, Jr., reporting the appointment of the Senate Subcommittee and again giving strong support to the Cordiner plan.

It is thus evident that efforts to stifle the report have failed. We cannot hope for action at this session of Congress, but there seems little doubt but that support and understanding of the report is growing and that a determined effort will be made in the next session to push it to enactment.

QUOTES FROM THE JOURNAL

10 Years Ago (21 June 1947)—Seoul, Korea—Ceremonies were held here recently to celebrate the unloading of the 1,000,000th ton of military cargo, since 1 June of last year, at Inchon, characterized by officials and the 1,600 military personnel assigned there as the "best damn port in the Pacific." Those same words, in letters two feet high, greet every person who walks up "Charlie" Pier on his arrival in Korea.

50 Years Ago (22 June 1907)—RAdm. Colby M. Chester, USN, agrees with Alexander Graham Bell that aerial warships are destined to play an important part in the military operations of the future, and holds that their adaptability to such uses is no longer open to question. Admiral Chester says: "We old fellows have seen the sailing vessels give way to the armor-clad steam warships, and I predict that the future will see the aeroplane fighting machine. The aeroplane will be used for scouting purposes. With it the submarine can be located beneath the waves and explosives dropped upon it."

90 Years Ago (22 June 1867)—English papers express mortification at the untimely result of some blundering engineering performed by some military officers. One of the new fortifications placed for the defense of the Thames is sinking into the soil at a rate that will soon send it out of sight if continued.

War Orphans Act

Editor, THE JOURNAL:

Perhaps the following case may enlighten your readers regarding the War Orphans Act:

I am the widow of a Navy commander—aviator for 20 years—killed 8 July 1949, in a plane explosion at Coco Solo, Canal Zone, while on active duty. I am the mother of a 16-year-old boy, and a 20-year-old daughter, now a sophomore at college. Neither child is entitled to the educational benefits of the War Orphans Act as it now reads. This is due to the fact that my husband was inconveniently killed in the wrong year, as the Law reads—even though he was on active duty through the war period and in peace time with an enviable record throughout his entire Navy career.

When a 90-day Korean veteran, or a Pearl Harbor veteran with six children, dies at home, the children are entitled to free college education! Mine are not! Why? I have investigated the possibility since the Act was made law, a Law which is so unfair to many widows (Regular Service) and their children, such as mine; why has there not been an amendment to this Law?

It sure is discouraging to notice the benefits welcomed by many prosperous and slightly disabled veterans.

Army Navy Air Force Journal 11
22 June 1957 (Vol. 94, P. 1295)

2d Army CofS To FEC

Brig. Gen. Thomas N. Griffith, USA, Chief of Staff, Hq. Second U. S. Army since October 31, 1955, has been assigned to U. S. Army Forces Far East.

General Griffin will be succeeded at Ft. Meade, Md., by Maj. Gen. Rinaldo Van Brunt, USA, Commanding General, Northern Area Command, U. S. Army, Europe with headquarters in Frankfurt.

Navy Adopts A-Weapons, Deep Sea Diver And Squadron Insignia; Other Changes

A specialty mark for Nuclear Weaponsmen and a distinguishing mark for Deep Sea Divers are among six uniform regulation changes approved by Secretary of the Navy Thomas S. Gates.

The Nuclear Weapons Man mark—depicting a falling bomb with two electrons revolving around it—will not begin to appear in the Fleet until March or April 1958. The first test for nuclear weapons qualification will be conducted next February.

The Deep Sea Diver mark, however, will start to show up within a few months as 2d and 1st class divers perfect their skills. The new mark consists of a diving helmet and breastplate with the letter "D" centered on the breastplate. As salvage and deep sea divers pass additional tests, they will become eligible to wear the coveted Master Diver's "M" on the breastplate of the distinguished mark.

New Band Uniform

At the same time, the Secretary approved a new parade uniform for enlisted bandsmen. The colorful outfit features a gold single-breasted, square front style coat with a flared bottom. Its hook-and-eye standing collar bears the embroidered monogram "USN" of royal blue silk on either side. The coat sleeves have 1 1/4 inch unipied band topped by royal blue scroll loops. Six Navy-eagle buttons decorate the coat front. The belt is the same color as the coat and has a 2 x 3-inch buckle bearing a metal anchor and lyre design. The trousers are dark blue and have a wide gold stripe along the sides.

The ensemble is crowned by a dark blue cap which has a gold colored band and a black patent leather chin strap.

Band members are required to wear large medals with the new uniform.

Squadron Sleeve Marks

The Secretary also approved the Permanent Uniform Board's recommendation that enlisted men assigned to aircraft squadrons be allowed to don unit identifying marks similar to the ship name sleeve marks.

The curved marks will be worn on the left shoulder just below the seam and show the type of unit followed by the squadron number. The word "squadron" will be spelled out. Here's an example of how the mark will read: VF Squadron 200.

Officers Scarf

Officers are required to have the white scarf in their wardrobes. Its wear with the Blue Service uniform, however, is not mandatory unless a specific order is issued by a unit commander. In the past, the white scarf was an optional uniform item.

Academic Hood

Officers who have been awarded degrees above the Bachelor of Arts or Sciences level are permitted to carry an appropriate academic hood over their left forearm at academic ceremonies, except at U. S. Naval Academy graduation exercises.

G-2 I.Q. ANSWERS

Lt. Col. Emma Jane Riley, now WAF Staff Director for USAFE at Wiesbaden, Germany, will succeed Col. Phyllis D. S. Gray, who retires on 31 August, as head of the WAF. Colonel Riley will head a WAF organization of 8600 women assigned to about 450 different kinds of jobs in 30 career fields.

The change in command of SAC from General Curtis E. LeMay, USAF, to Lt. Gen. Thomas S. Power, USAF, which takes place on 1 July, recalls that SAC had 600 aircraft, including 250 bombers, and 37,999 active personnel in 1946; currently SAC has 3000 aircraft and 227,000 officers and airmen.

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER'S COMMENTS on military pay doom all chances for broadened action on the Cordiner Report this year, but the Chief Executive has reenforced SecDef Wilson's promise for continued study of the "pay for merit" plan. There is no question that the Cordiner Report points the way to the military pay structure of the future. IT WILL BE UP to its supporters at the Pentagon, on Capitol Hill and in the Public to maintain a steady flow of information on the need for its adoption during the summer and fall months. If this is done, action could take place early in the next session of Congress.

THE JOURNAL HAS SAID REPEATEDLY that if the Defense Department did not exert vigorous leadership in support of the Cordiner Report—and it was barred from doing this by the Budget Bureau—that Members of Congress would take the initiative. This has been done. It can be stated with certainty that the Armed Services Committees, particularly in the Senate, will not let the Cordiner Plan lapse for want of influential advocates.

A NEW PLAN will get a comprehensive hearing on Capitol Hill before the next Congressional elections. And it will be linked to concurrent reductions in military manpower.

NO MEMBER OF CONGRESS likely will be more important than Senator Byrd (D-Va.) in determining the fate of the Cordiner Report. He is a member of the special Senate Pay Subcommittee. Widely recognized as one of the most powerful fighters for economy in Government, Senator Byrd will need to be convinced that the Cordiner Plan would save men and money. If he is, much opposition will be overpowered. If he is not convinced, chances for a pay rise would be dim, indeed.

"FAT CAN KILL" is the blunt warning of Air Force medical men as part of their campaign against obesity. A current document states that fat tissue contains a considerable quantity of nitrogen which, under certain circumstances of decreased barometric pressure, may be released as bubbles. TWO CASES ARE CITED where overweight passengers in jet aircraft met death as a result of explosive decompression at 30,000 feet.

FISCAL '59 JCS STUDIES will be marked by a "new look" at Reserve Forces levels. Many military leaders now think that a cutback in Reserve manpower should be considered in view of the rising costs and the budget ceiling. Another factor is the reorganization of National Guard and Reserve units in line with modern weapons concepts. THE RESERVE FORCES PROBLEM undoubtedly will be one of the first and most sensitive matters handled by General Twining as JCS Chairman.

AIR FORCE FLYING SAFETY STATISTICS show that the majority of accidents involve pilots with less than 200 hours flying time. The June issue of "Pegasus," publication of the Fairchild Engine and Airplane Corporation, contains data compiled by the USAF Directorate of Flight Safety Research under Brig. Gen. Joseph D. "Smokey" Caldera, USAF. THESE FIGURES SHOW that of 266 major T-33 jet fighter-trainer accidents between July 1955 and July 1956, a total of 53 per cent of the pilots had less than 200 hours flying time in that plane. During the same period, 71 per cent of bomber accidents involved pilots with less than 200 hours.

ADVANCE NOTICE that the cut of nine Air Force wings to the new goal of 128 for FY '58 will be reduced further is contained in the Senate Appropriations Committee testimony of Maj. Gen. Daniel L. Callahan, USAF, Assistant for Programming, Deputy CofS, Operations. Spelling out details of the '58 reduction, General Callahan said: "It must be anticipated that as we go into the 1959-1960 program period, the composition of this force structure will be subject to further review and possible change."

SIX MONTHS IN GRADE will be a minimum requirement for Service enlisted men to win "proficiency pay" increases under rules laid down by SecDef Wilson's office. This will hold the cost in line with the $49 million estimate forecast by the Pentagon for the first year.

THE SERVICES ARE DELAYING dispatch of instructions to the field, however, until the budget picture is clearer, which means there probably won't be any implementing orders before the Senate and House agree on a fiscal '58 military funds program.

GENERAL CONSENSUS among the Services now is that the "proficiency pay" scheme, though falling far short of the Cordiner Committee proposals, is "a step in the right direction." Personnel experts concede that difficulties are certain to develop and that there will be some loss of morale, notably among men in E-7 rank who benefit not at all, regardless of their degree of specialization in a critical MOS. However, the feeling is that on balance the "proficiency pay" program will, if carried out as promised by Secretary Wilson, encourage more men to stay in Service than at present.

THE ARMY REPORTEDLY has convinced Defense Department officials of the urgent need to give "combat leadership" qualifications equitable consideration in working out extra pay benefits. Army leaders have stressed that combat arms NCO's will play increasingly important roles under the "Pentomic" organization. A PROBLEM ARISES because NCO combat leaders, by and large, do not attend lengthy and expensive schools, as is the case with technicians. Hence, the cost of their training and urgency of retention is less apparent than is the case, for example, of a missile maintenance man.

SURPRISING FACT is that the Army now is short thousands of top three-graders in the combat arms. Few people realize that because of the heavy emphasis during recent months on the shortage of technicians.

TRIPLE ACADEMIC HONORS have been accorded General W. E. Rawlings, USAF, head of the Air Materiel Command, who has won three other honors this year. Ohio Wesleyan and Miami Universities in Ohio and Hendrix College in Arkansas made him a Doctor of Laws, following honorary degrees of Doctor of Humanities and Doctor of Business Administration received previously from the University of Ohio and Hamline University in Minnesota, where he obtained his BA in '27. During 1957, the Dayton, Ohio, Kiwanis Club designated him a "Four-Star Neighbor," coinciding with the Mayor's proclamation of "General Rawlings Day." In April, he received the Legion of Aeronautical Merit from Brazil and that month also was chosen to receive the General William E. Mitchell Award. General Rawlings has been in command of AMC since 28 July 1951.

SCORPION'S THE NAME

The Army has named its 90mm self-propelled airborne gun the "Scorpion."

Announced in October 1955 and officially designated the M-56, the weapon's new designation was announced at a meeting of the American Ordnance Association at Ft. Knox, Ky., by Maj. Gen. Andrew T. O'Meara, USA, Deputy Chief of Army Research and Development.

The "Scorpion" is designed to meet military requirements for a light, highly mobile and hard-hitting self-propelled antitank gun for use in the assault phase of airborne operations. It is built by General Motors Corporation, which began work on the "Scorpion" in 1950.

EXTENSION COURSES TO BENNING

The entire Army pre-commission extension course program is being turned over to the Infantry School's Department of Non-Resident Instruction at Ft. Benning, Ga.

Tentative completion date for the transfer is late summer, according to Lt. Col. Paul J. Jarret, USA, Department Director.

Courses leading to qualification for a Reserve commission as a second lieutenant have been given by the Infantry, Medical, Signal, Engineer, Provost Marshal General, Adjutant General, Chemical and Army Security Agency Schools.

Pre-commission extension courses are open to enlisted men on active duty and in Reserve components and to Department of the Army civilians. Currently 38,104 persons are enrolled in the course given by The Infantry School.

Despite the fact that the course is given completely by correspondence, many Reservist and National Guard personnel are billeted at Ft. Benning at their own expense while completing their lessons. A National Guard policy is that enlisted men planning to attend the organization's special officer candidate school at Ft. Benning must first successfully complete the extension course.

The instruction is divided into 15 sub-courses with as many as nine lessons for each phase. An examination is given after the completion of each phase and at the end of the course.

Timberlakes Are Godparents—

The "Pax Room" in the Allied Officers Club at NATO's Southern Headquarters in Naples, Italy, was the scene of an unusual ceremony recently which vividly reminded the many allied officers attending that "NATO" also means "new-born" in Italian as well as standing for the 15-nation organization dedicated to the defense of the free world.

The unusual event was the christening of John A. Vlantousis, first-born son of Maj. Gen. Anastasios J. Vlantousis, RHAF, Deputy Chief of Staff for Plans and Operations at Headquarters Allied Forces Southern Europe. Taking part as godparents were Mrs. Patrick W. Timberlake and Lt. Gen. Timberlake, USAF, soon to retire in the Los Angeles area after two years as NATO's southern air commander.

Allied officers and wives of all six NATO nations represented at the international headquarters attended, including Admiral Robert P. Briscoe, USN, Commander-in-Chief of Allied Forces Southern Europe; Maj. Gen. Luigi Bianchi, Italian Air Force, Deputy Commander of AIRSOUTH; Maj. Gen. Jean-Marie Bezy, French Air Force; Brig. Gen. WIDOWS PAY ADVICE

Widows of 14,000 veterans stand to lose money unless they apply for increased compensation payments by 1 July.

They are widows whose husbands died of service-connected causes before this year, and who may have the higher payments dated back to 1 Jan., if they apply by 1 July.

The Veterans Administration said the 104,000 widows eligible for the increased benefit have been notified, and that 90,000 already have made application.

With a few exceptions, those applying after 1 July will have their payments increased only as of the day VA gets the application.

Widows who have not made application for the higher payments are urged to contact the nearest VA office immediately for details.

New Fighter Joins Fleet In 1960

A new Navy fighter plane, being developed by Chance-Vought Aircraft Company, will join the fleet in 1960.

The Navy said the plane will fly at better than twice the speed of sound.

The craft, an outgrowth of Chance-Vought's F8U-1 Crusader, is a completely new design. The Crusader holds the national speed record of 1,015 miles per hour.

The new model, as yet unnamed, has a swept wing mounted high on the fuselage well back of the cockpit section. A sharp pointed nose containing radar gear tapers smoothly into the cockpit area and the air scoop is well forward under the nose.

The plane will be capable of all-weather operations and will carry guided missiles. It will be powered by a J-75 afterburner-equipped Pratt & Whitney engine in the 15,000-pound thrust class.

AF Fears Flying Cut

of $23.6 billion, almost $3 billion less than recommended by the Air Staff.

Then Air Force Secretary (now Deputy Defense Secretary) Donald A. Quarles subsequently proposed to Secretary Wilson that the Air Force be given $21 billion in new obligational authority for the year starting July 1, of which 4.5 billion would be for O&M activities.

This was reduced by the Administration to $17.7 billion, of which $4.2 billion would be for O&M.

THE PRESIDENT'S BUDGET was designed to provide a slight reduction in flying hours in comparison with fiscal '57, including 250,000 fewer non-tactical hours.

The reduction will be considerably more than "slight" if the House action sticks.

Maj. Gen. Frank A. Bogart, USAF, Director of the Budget, told the Senate Appropriations Committee that "any further reduction can only result in reduced combat potential. This is an 'economy' which we cannot afford under current conditions, particularly in view of the flying hour reduction that was necessary in the last quarter of '57."

General Bogart was referring to the fact that the Air Force has been forced to curtail flying training because of budget limitations during recent months, including B-47 combat crew training.
